TWO MINE FATALITIES.

Thirty-seven Lose Their Lives Near Seattle, Wash.

ENVELOPED IN CLOUDS OF FLAME.

The Men Might Have Escaped but for a Mercic Effort to Suppress the Fire. Explosion in a Pennsylvania Mine Killa Two and Wounds Eleven.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 25.-A terrific gas explosion occurred in breast 62 on the sixth level of the Franklin mine, near this city, yesterday afternoon. A number of miners were imprisoned and thirty-seven were killed. The fire was soon extinguished, and the work of taking out the b dies began. All were recovered. Fol-lowing is a list of the dead

About half of the miners were negroes, having been brought from the east four years ago to replace the strikers. The mine is owned by the Oregon Improve-ment company, and produces the best coal in the strae of Washington. The damage to the mine is not large.

At 13.45 o'clock yesterday afternoon a fire was noticed by scale of the drivers on the sixth north level, and notice was given to the men in-ide who were working the different place-, some in the breast about the level and others along the gangway.

Many of the men in the rangways rushed back to retity the miners further in, while others rushed out and reached the main shaft. It is certain that all the men in the breast reached the gangway

In all about seventy men were at work in the sixth level north, and of that numher about forty lingered at breast 60, where the fire originated, and made an attempt to put it out. The breast was burning fiercely, and before the miners knew it the fire had communicated to breast-60 and 61. Several of those who lingered at the burning breast, 62, took warning, but all who remained were overcome and asphyxiated

It is evident that all the men had time to come out, for these who worked in the further breast reached the shaft in safety. while these who were nearest the shaft while these who were negres. The injured are all very seriously burned.

The explosion was primarily caused by a fall of coal, which became dislodged by the mining operations. This released an immense volume of gas, and at the same time forced it along the gangways to a distance of more than a thousand yards. stiffing and choking the miners as it swept along binally it reached a gang of miners, who were working with naked lamps, and instantly ignited. A BRUTAL NEGRO REPULSED.

Attempted to Assault a Widow Lady and Her Aged Mother.

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 25.-An atrocious assault was attempted early in the morning by an unknown negro, at the residence of Mrs. Torrey, in Wellwood. Mrs. Torrey, who is the widow of James W. Torrey, for a long time cashier of the Philadelphia National bank, with her three children and her mother, lives in a large house on the south side of the turnpike, in the western end of the town.

About 5 o'clock Mrs. Torrey was awakened and found some one lying beside her in bed. She at once supposed it was her oldest boy. James, who slept in an adjoining room. He is not very well, and she thought he had come into her room and laid down beside her in attempting to arise to make investigation she was confronted by a burly looking negro, who had been lying on the bed beside her. Upon being aroused he attempted to assault both Mrs Torrey and her mother

A terrible struggle ensued, both women fighting de-peritely against the black brute. During the struggle young James Torrey was awakened and rushed into the room, when the man became frightened and made his e-cape by way of a side

The negro's intentions were evidently not to rob, as there were two ponketbooks and a gold watch lying on a cureau, which were left undisturbed.

Constable Daly, of Merchantville, arrested "Shad" Blackson, a stalwart colored man, aged 35 who was formerly employed by the Torrey family as a coach-man. The arrest was made upon suspicion, and the prisoner was taken to the home of Mrs. Torrey for identification. Mrs. Torrey was too ill from the result of Ler fright and pervousness to see the man but it is reported that Blackson was immediately identified by Mrs. Ivor. the mother of Mrs Torrey

CHEERING PREDICTIONS FOR FALL.

A Large Volume of Business Expected in the Near Future, as Evidenced by the Week's Bank Clearings, Which Ars Twenty Per Cent. Above Last Year.

NEW YORK Aug 25. - Bradstreets' lrade review says. Serious industrial disturbances in New England, drought in centrai and far western states curtailing cearly all staple crops and a disposition in all lines to continue to buy for nearby wants only fail to greatly influence general trade throughout the country, the trend of which is toward further improvement Northwestern states east of the Missouri and the Atlantic and gulf coast southern states report relatively greater gains in volume of traffic and in the spread of that petter feeling and confidence in a large volume of business in the fall, on which improvement in business depends

Prominent among evidences of expansion in general trade :- this week's bank clearings total, $-200 octo, a gain over last week of about 4 per cent., and over the like total one year ago, when clearings got down to about sow water mark, the increase is 20 per cent. But compared with the total in the like week two years ago this week's aggregate clearings show a decrease of 18 per cent. It is also worth noting, as a sign of the business movement, that every city's clearings total for the week is larger than a year ago except

At larger eastern cities there is evidence of an increased confidence that the autume will bring a largely augmented demand in nearly all staple lines, but Baltimore is the only city in this group announcing a decided improvement.

General trade at southern cities betrays no change within a week in volume of transactions or demand, business on the whole being relatively better than in some other portions of the country.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s review says: Changes during the past week have not been definite nor very important. As the president's final decision regarding the new tariff is assumed, but not yet certainly known, part of the hesitation which appears may be attributed to the lingering uncertainty which must soon terminate. Other conditions, if not entirely favorable, have at least not changed for the worse during the past week.

The injury to corn is less than many apprehended, but is still believed to have reduced the yield about 500,000,000 bushels. The strike of coke workers and coal miners has ended, and while the lockout of cotton operatives is important, it affects the earnings and livelihood of a much smaller number

GLASS WORKS WILL RESUME.

A Compressise with Two Factories Which May Bring Others to Torms.

PRITSBURG, Aug. 25 -The prospective contest between window glass workers and manufacturers is likely to be nipped in the bud by a settlement effected between the workers and the Chambers Glass company, of Kensington, and the Phillips Glass company, of Pittsburg.

The situation at the close of Thursday's conference pointed strongly to a complete shut down of the window glass plants of the United States. Yesterday, however, Mr. Chambers and the demand of the manufacturers was excessive, and he would start his works on Sept. 1 on a com promise of 25 percent. After consultal tion with the workmen this proposition was changed to provide for a 20 per cent. reduction for blowers, flatteners and out? ters, and a 10 per cent, advance for gatherers. This scale was accepted by the men, and the Chambers & Phillips factories will blow in on Sept. 1. The starting of these works will probably result in the forcing of the other manufacturers to fol-

MR. EGAN'S TESTIMONY

The Railroads' Strike Leader Before the Commission.

DENIES COMPLICITY WITH RIOTS.

He Denounces the Allegation As Absurd. Superintendent of Police Brennan Declares That the Deputy Marshale Were in the Way Rather Than of Service.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25 .- General Manager E. Ft. John, of the Rock Island road, was recalled by the strike commission yesterday. Mr. St. Joho's testimony yesterday regarding the blacklist had apparently not satisfied the commissioners, and he was closely questioned regarding it.

"You have said," said Commissioner Kernan, "that your road has no blacklist. Now, is it a fact that the General Managers' association has a blacklist?" "No such a thing as a real blacklist ex-isrs among the railroads to my knowledge," was the answer. There was, however. I believe, a list of names prepared for the General Managers' association. It contained the names of the most active atrikers, and has been, I think, submit-ted to most of the roads by the associa-tion. It cannot properly be called a blacklist, however." John M. Egan, strike manager of the General Managers' association, succeeded Mr. St. John on the stand. Mr. Egan was questioned regarding his duties during the strike, and said it was his duty to receive reports from the various roads of the progress of the trouble and to submit the same to the association.

After preliminary questions Commis-sioner Wright asked Mr. Egan if in his official capacity be had made any effort to settle the strike peaceably.

"I did not," answered the strike manager.

"Is the policy of the railroads to settle such troubles by force?" "In this case, at least, it was," the witness replied frankly.

The commissioner then asked the witness for his views regarding measures for the prevention of strikes. Mr. Egan said that all railroad employes, above common laborers, should be licensed and compelled to wear uniforms plainly indicating the positions they held. Such means, he believed, would tend to put reliable, level headed men in service, and would prevent such troubles as those of the present sum-

Commissioner Kernan, by a shrewd series of questious, succeeded in badly mixing up the witness and his theories, and Mr. Egan bimself admitted that even with a system of licenses conditions might arise that would necessitate outside assistance or arbitration "Mr Egan," said Commissioner Wright, "a witness has stated before us that you used railroad money and employed men to burn and otherwise destroy railroad property during the -trike. Is this true?" The witness grew cyrlently angry, and straightened up in his seat and said emphatically "Considering the source from which that testimony came, it seems to me that to should be apparent that it is the most fool, an rot. FOR RENT FREE.

It was an aristocratic looking mansion in the most aristocratic neighborhood of the aristocratic city of Washington, and inasmuch as it was offered rent free for one year to any one who would agree to occupy it for that time I did not hesitate long in making up my mind to take it. Upon inquiring the reason why the place was offered for rent on such easy terms the agent informed me that it had the name of being haunted, and that the owner had been so unfortunate as to procure in succession a number of tenants, all of whom were superstitions and all of whom straightway moved out.

I was pleased with the frankness of tho agent until I afterward learned that the owner had come to the same conclusion a dozen years before, and that the only tenant he had secured since then, a young bachelor like myself, had been found dead on the drawing room floor the morning after the first night's ocenpañey. The police had been told to go there and look for him by the servant, who had fled from the house when the ghost first put in its appearance. The coroner's verdict was, "Died from heart failure." I am not superstitions, nor am I even mervous, and so it was but a few days before I moved into the haunted house, but in that time I had nearly lost Mose, my old colored servant and standby, who had been the one thing left me after the settling up of my father's estate. My father had bought him years before up at Fairfax Courthouse, and he tried to buy his sister, Calla Lilly, who was equally black, but she was sold to a higher bidder from Alexandria. After the war she went to live in Washington with Mrs. Lee Nelson, whom she called one of her "chil'un." Mrs. Lee Nelson lived at 1705, directly across the street from my free mansion, and thus Mose learned all about the "ha nts over to yondah house whar you'se gwine to live at."

Poor Mose! After all he had heard of the ghosts that had been seen there I can searcely blame him for his unwillingness to live with me in my free quarters, and I do not wonder that I found him hard to persuade and finally reassure, as I eventually did.

The day after the furniture had been put in Mose and I were hanging pictures, unpacking the library and at the same time investigating things, looking to see where this door went to and that noise came from. Most of all we were curious about the great red stain on the floor in front of the mantel in the front drawing room. It was during this time that Mose was telling me what "Lilly dun tole' him.

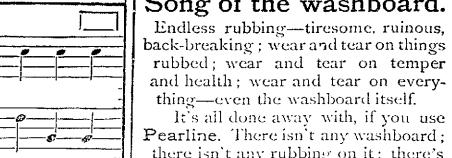

"Mahsa, Lilly she say dat we uns gwine be skeered so bad dat our teef gwine shake outen our head. Lilly she say dat she reckuns she knows all 'bout dis yer house, ons she know'd de young gen'man what commit de sooside yer, ca be war engaged to her young Mistus Charlitt, what married her cousin Richa'd Moncure. Miss Charlitt's mammy she insists she doan' marry no northe'n man, but must marry qual'ty people, and dat's how de trouble hit all come erbout.

"Prince Cholly, dat's what dev all in his mannahs, he ust to lib yer long befo' de wah, and he ust to come down to Alexandry to co't Miss Charlitt all de time. And Lilly she say she cain't hope but think dat he was qual'ty, even ef he war a northe'nah. Lilly say he war a pow'ful pretty man, and dat Miss Charlitt cert'nly sot a heap of sto' by him. De pres'dant what war de pres'dant befo' Mistah Lincoln war de pres'dant he dun sent Prince Cholly's pappy away to England to be a minstah, and he take Prince Cholly's mammy along with him. Prince Cholly, he tell his pappy he come in de spring. Lilly she say dat wintah he come pow'ful clost to libbin down to Alexandry, and Miss Charlitt she jest as smilin as a basket of chips on a frosty mo'nin.

"When all de chairry trees and everythin was bloss'mm, Prince Cholly he tells. Miss Charlitt, he got to go to England and you his pappy and mammy fo' de summah, and he ax Miss Charlitt ef she won't get married to him then, 'sted of wait - Lutha yeah. He want her to go theig with him on a honeymoon and s'prize his folks. Miss Charlitt she mighty glad to do this, cus her mammy dun tryin all de time to get her to marry Mistah Moncure. Lilly say her manuay jest put her feet down Mackerel 9 cents per pound: get married den, cas she ain' ole nuff, p'intidly and 'fused to let Miss Charlitt and findly Prince Cholly he have to go 'way by hisself, and Lilly say she dunhad de mizry in her side fo' a week, cushe look so moanful when he say goodby to Miss Charlitt in de gyrden. Lilly say dat she and all the house niggalis was peepin, and dcy could see Prince Cholly and Miss Charlitt in de moonlight by de lilac hedge, and den bymby Prince Cholly he let go his holt of her and malich off down de street, Miss Charlitt she standin lookin aftah lum tell he out of sight.

"Lally she say she cain't remembah ever seem Miss Charlitt smile 'gain aftah dat day. All de trouble came den, fo' de next mo'nin yer come Mistah Moneure, and he try right 'way to make Miss Charlitt marry him, and Miss Charlitt's mammy she hope him all she know'd how. Miss Charlitt she wouldn't 'low him to co't her at all, doh, and she tell him et he don't go way she'd's pize him. Mistah Moneure he stay right then, don, all de time, and de Lawd only knows how der do hit, but in August he and Miss Charlitt's manny dun make her marry him. Miss Charlitt she seclare all de time she jest hate him, and fally say she know she did, too, cus she seed hit in Miss Charlitt's face, she look so contemptu'slike. Den dey move 'way, down to Fredericksburg, and am' hardly mo' dan gone when yer come Prince Cholly home again, and he find de lettah what Miss Charlitt dun write to him de mo'nin she git married. Lilly say dat de ebidence dun show dat affah he read de lettab be drap lat on de flo' in front of Song of the washboard.

It's all done away with, if you use Pearline. There isn't any washboard; there isn't any rubbing on it; there's no wear and tear, and there's very little work. It's the only sensible way of washing-easy, economical, and, above all things, absolutely safe.

Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back.

AMERICA'S Z GREATEST MEN — AND WOMEN.:

Name is Wilson; I do an insurance business on LaSalle street, in Chicago Ill., and I live in Evanston, Ill. Evanston is what was originally a scattering population on a pretty point on Lake Michigan, esteemed years ago far from the city of Chicago, but now one of the varied towns which may go within it by vote of the population.

I am married and have a wife and one child. That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same solicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural fancies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of intelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established; still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did. to be a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he has done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what I should say to him and have sometimes been puzzled. I could not very well tell himwhat to do. I wanted to tell him what I needed but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else was not thoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which ordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to tell him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who were successful at the present time.

Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much value, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they were alive. I feel confident, though, that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful to day have done and how they did it, I could give ust to call him, cus he war so sprit'ly to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from failure as justified by the natural ability he may possess,

I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find none until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leading American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of that same person's life—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed in various ways; here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy ank secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world.

I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book-I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman-for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift, all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but I am no authority on these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work.

This is the work 1 am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume of 250 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

"Yes," I said, "I presume it does, but what of Miss Charlotte?"

"Jest gwine to tell you dat. Lilly she say dat when M.-s Charlitt she heah what Prince Cholly dan gone and do she up and comes home to her mammy in Alexandry and down eat nuthin, but just lay on de bed and cry and cry jest so her heart would break. And den de fevah come, and she git 'stracted and doan' know anybody, not even her own mammy. She grow'd worse every day tell she am' lookin no more like Miss Charlitt than anything. The doctor tell her maining she ain' gwine to live long and say she bettah send fo' her husband, but her manning say no, not fo' him. Miss Charlitt she sleep right peaceful dat night, and she smile right nachullike and look most jest like she did befor Prince Chelly had to go way. Long t'wads de mo'nin Miss Charlitt she dun raise right up in de bade and reach up her arms jest so and cry out ral jyful, 'Prince Cholly, 'but she ain' neber say no mo'. She drap back on her pillar, and de doctor say hit's all over, and he say hit too bad her husband ain' thar, but Miss Charlitt's mammy she see the happy spreshun on M1-s Charlitt's face, and she say, 'No: Lit am bettah he ain' heah. Lilly say she heerd dat Miss Charlitt's ha'nt is yer in this house too."

The afternoon faded into the darkness of the evening. After my dinner I had to remain with Mose while he finished washing the dishes, as he was afraid to be left alone for even a moment. His work over, we adjourned to the front parler, and I permitted Mose to smoke a cigar with me. As no ghosts seemed to come forth. I thought they might object to the lights, and, much to the disgust of Mose, I put them out in the hall and in the room where we sat. A soft radiance came in from the street, and we sat and smoked, and Most, wishing to appear comageous, was saying that he guessed that half the houses that were supposed to be haunted were not, and I was thinking of the beautiful Miss Charlotte when suddenly a figure passed swiftly and noiselessly from the hall door to the areplace and there vanished completely.

" 'Fo God, mahsa, jew see dat?' cried Mose, clinging around my neck, beseeching me in one how! to protect him and in another calling on the Lord to make him "a better nigger."

I have said that I am not superstitions nor even nervous, but I had just seen what Mose had, and after his unearthly howling in my ear 1 was nearly as much worked up as he was. We at ace lighted the gas and started an inve-tigation, but discovered nothing.

I tried all my persuasion, but Mose was determined to go. We, however settled that he should sloop at Lilly's and come to me early in the mornings. I told him there were no such things as ghosts, and that I should no doubt soon find out all about the apparition of the night before. That evening, after he had finished his work and gone to sleen across the way, I again planted myself in such a position that I could easily watch the door leading into the hall. I was in the dark smoking, and I had not been seated long, when a tall figure, seemingly that of a young man, passed hurriedly from the fireplace across the room and out into the hall.

I cried to it to stop. My voice echoed through the house and frightened me, it sounded so little like my own. I was about to start in search of the retreating figure when there entered from the door two others-those of a man and a woman. They passed slowly enough for me to see them plainly, shadowy as they were, and I ran from the room and out the front door to the sidewalk. No; I was not mistaken. There were the man and the woman-two negroes in flesh and blood-and down the hill at the corner of Second street was an electric light. I saw it all at once. Any one passing in front of the house would cast a deep shadow in my drawing room. I called out to the couple who had just passed: "Hollo, there! Wait!" At my first invitation to wait they stopped, but as they located my voice and my figure there came a howl from the woman: "Fo' God, Ephr'am! Fo' de Lawd sake, look yonder, honey!" Approaching them, I asked if they would not please walk back past the house again, as I wished to see the phantoms float across my parlor. I was compelled to wait for other passersby, however, for the gentleman addressed as Ephr'am and the lady under his protection had put two blocks between us before I knew it. Upon re-entering the house and waiting for more ghosts I was rewarded, for when any one passed while the room was dark a corresponding figure or figures would be seen passing either to or from the fireplace.

A few days later Lilly to'd Mose that "a ha'nt what look for all de worl like Prince Cholly dun come out from dat house last Thewsday night, and nit dun chase Brudda Ephr'am Joslyn and his wife clean from dure to de P street bridge, where, bein as how hit war ha'nt, hit couldn't go no faddah." This flattered my vanity, but it was humiliated immediately, for Mose utterly refused to believe that the elegant figure of the ghost was no other than my own. I occupied the house a year, rent free, and have had it for six years at a minimum figure, but Mose still goes across the way to sleep every night. -Sidney Austin Witherhee in Romance.

THE CREAT FOREPAUGH SHOW.

Politeness should never be lost

sight of anywhere, and the managers of the Adam Forepaugh Shows want it distinctly understood that they regard their patrons as their guests and as such entitled to all the courteous treatment that would be extended to them in a private house or place of business. There must be many hundreds of persons whom the public come more or less in contact with in the ordinary pursuits of life that are found to be more or less rude. All the employees of these shows, however, are given no choice in the matter. The managers require them to be absolutely polite and always attentive to the comfort of the visitors to the shows. If you should receive any discourtesy, therefore, you will confer a favor upon the managers if you will at once report the incivility. Do not think that it is too much trouble. It is a duty you owe not only to yourself but also the public. By so doing you may save some relative or friend from similar unpleasant experiences. If you bring the matter to the attention of the proper authorities, who may always be found at the main entrance, the person offending against you will be surely, severely punished. The Adam Forepaugh Shows have been touring America for the past thirty years and it is the desire of the managers that they will continue to tour it for thirty years more. They do not look upon this as their last visit to your city and want their establishment conducted in such a manner that you will find it always a pleasure to visit these shows and give them a hearty velcome. The managers know that you will not unless you are treated well, so that they are not entirely unselfish in asking you to his heart. Firstone's wife and several report the ill conduct of any of their employees. They will be here on Tuesday, Sept. 4th.

A CITY OF PARKS.

Middletown Has Many and Never Looks for a Name as Does Its Sister City.

Newburgh is to have a voting contest for the purpose of naming a new park recently laid ou; by the Common Council.

In Middletown parks are numerous and there never has been any trouble in finding names. We have our Thrall park, Academy park, Blye park, Webb's park, Harlem park, Columbia park, Orchard park and last but certainly by no means least our Midway park, which is being dedicated, to-day.

Ours is a city of parks and we are never at loss for a name if a new one

ATTEMPT AT HICHWAY ROBBERY Held Up at Fiddlers' Elbow on the Coleville Turnpike.

Wednesday evening, while Mr. and Mrs.S.C. Meyers, of Port Jervis, were driving home from Deckertown, they were set upon by three highwaymen at Fiddlers' Elbow on the Coleville turupike.

One of the men seized the reins. but Mr. Meyers belabored him so hard with the whip that he was glad to release his hold.

The horse started to run away and Mr. and Mrs. Meyers were soon out of the reach of the nieu.

NEARLY A PANIC.

Actors Rehearsing a Play Cause Excitement In a Chicago Hotel. There came near being a panic in the reading room of the Great Northern the other day. Archie Boyd, the actor who used to play Den Thompson's part in "The Old Homester, I" and who starred last season in a new play of his own called "The Country Squire," was here some weeks ago to consult Con T. Murphy, the playwright, as to alterations in this play. He wanted a new second act, and after talking matters over with Murphy he left the latter hard at work on his manuscript at his Lake Bluff home.

One day last week he wired Murphy that he would meet him at the Great Northern at a certain time and read over the altered play with him. The author was on hand at the appointed time, and so was the star. Together they repaired to the reading room and set about their task. Mr. Murphy read quietly until his enthusiasm overcame him. Then he threw caution to the winds and exclaimed: "My God, you have stolen my child!"

up from a letter he was writing to the folks, and then he edged uneasily toward the end of the table.

A guest from Oregon, Ills., looked

"Tis false," roared Boyd. "I am no kidnaper.

"You lie!" exclaimed Murphy in loud tenes, throwing the manuscript aside, and the man from Oregon started for the door, while a commercial man from Toledo kaned back in his chair to

The author and star had shifted to a quiet love sinne, when Landlord Eden came in at the request of the Oregon man to see what the trouble was. When he told the latter what was up, he upologized professly and wanted to buy pop for the party. When Boyd plays in Oregon, the stranger will be in the audience.—Chicago Times.

WONDERFUL NERVE.

A Man Who Looked on Calmly While the Surgeons Cut Off His Foot.

Thomas E. Byrnes, a molder, had a portion of his right foot crushed by being run over by a Lake Roland car yesterday morning, which necessitated the amputation of about one-half of the foot. During the amputation Byrnes gave one of the most stolid exhibitions of nerve and impassiveness to pain ever witnessed. Drs. R. F. Blake and Geer made preparations to put their patient under the influence of chloroform for this purpose, but when Byrnes was informed of what they were about to do he amazed them by telling them to go ahead with the cutting, but that he didn't want a narcotic. The physicians feared be couldn't stand it, robust as he is, and plainly told him so, but Byrnes was firm and said he would get through it all right.

Then the surgeous proceeded as gently as possible. The pain must have been terrible. Just imagine taking a knife and sinking it down into the flesh, severing bones and joints! "It's enough to make one shudder," said a bystander, a surgeon, too, accustomed to the horrors of a surgical hospital. But Byrnes never even winced. He sat in the chair with folded arms, braced himself against the back of the sent and watched the movements of the knife. There was no moan, no rolling of the eyes, no twitchingabsolutely no indication of the terrible pain except the pallor of his face. The operation over, Byrnes thanked the surgeons, who seemed to be far more concerned and anxious that the job come to an end than the heroic patient. - Baltimore American.

DUCKED IN SACKS.

But the Sultan's Affection Made the Operation a Mild One.

Odd stories are coming from Constantinople in connection with the recent earthquakes. One has been told of Gjussur Block, physician to the sultan. The earthquake damaged the part of the palace in which he lives, and suddenly two favorite wives of the sultan were precipitated through the ceiling into the doctor's room. All three fled from the building before it collapsed and found the sultan himself in the courtyard.

The stern practice of Islam left the sultan no choice but to tie up his two wives in sacks and plunge them into the Bosporus, they having been gazed upon by a profane giaour. Fortunately the sultan cherished affection for both of them, and having consulted the grand mufti he saw his way to have them punished symbolically. They were put into sacks which were properly sewed up and duly taken to sequestered spots on the banks of the Bosporus, and in the presence of a number of praying imams gently dipped into the soft, blue waters, after which the women were deemed to be purified. They were then removed to a new home and restored to their conjugal rights. -London Truth.

A Strike Mail Route.

Talk about red tape! The recent strike was productive of some remarkable specimens. Mail matter from this place to Rosedale has to go via Jewetta, and it cannot be sent in any other way. As the trains to the north were blocked, while there were one or two south bound, Postmaster Miller, acting under instructions, sent mail matter for Rosedale to Los Augeles, where it was transferred to San Pedro, took the steamer to San Francisco and finally was taken to Jewetta by train and thence to its destination, just eight miles from where it started.—Bakerstiehl California.

Pope Leo's Mistake.

The pope is said to have made an awkward and amusing mistake when Mr. J. G. S. Cox, editor of The Tablet, London, was presented to him. Catching of the words of introduction only the announcement that his visitor was the editor of a celebrated English paper, the pope, with a radiant smile, said, "Il Punch." The pope is pardonable if he doesn't read all the religious papers sent to the Vatican. - Boston Transcript | from 10 s. m. to 6 p. m.

brary Buildings at Washington. Nine busts in granite have been finished for the exterior decoration of the new library of congress in Washington. The worthies who first come to the front are Walter Scott, Dante, Demosthenes, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Emerson, Irving, Goethe, Benjamin Franklin and Macaulay.

Judging by newapaper cuts, a great variety of expression has been obtained by the respective artists who have made these nine busts.

Walter Scott has the intent, forward gaze of a college sprinter waiting for the word "go." Dante looks as if Dr. Channess M. Denew and just refused to accommodate him with a pass to Buffa- The model who sat for Demosthenes was Pack's Weary Waggles. Benjamin Franklin is slyly chuckling over his success in lodging a big charge of electricity in Nathaniel Hawthorne's back hair. Macaulay has put on a beautifully and symmetrically curled wig. Ralph Waldo Emerson has got the railroad pass which Dante missed. Washington Irving is listening to the Hon. Amos J. Cummings' latest and best anecdote, and Goethe has just caught through his alert left ear an invitation to drink from a man whom his soul leathes. For picture-que animation, the work of the seven sculptors seems meritorious. If this is only a beginning, the front of the new library buildings bids fair to be a human comedy in stone. The appearance of the second nine will be waited with great interest.-Washington Letter.

THE PRESIDENT COMING TO MID-DLETOWN.

The Sick May Receive Medical Services Free of Charge.

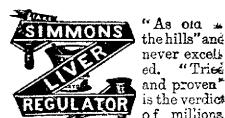

The President and members of the European and American Staff of German, English, Irish, Scandinavian and American Doctors of New York city will be at the Russell House, Middletown, on Tuesday, August 28th, one day only. The sick and afflicted may consult them without charge during their stay.

If you are incurable they will tell you; therefore invalids must not take offence if they are rejected, as no case will be accepted unless there is a moral certainty of a cure being effected. These Doctors are graduates of the best universities of Europe and America; they are of the highest standing in the medical profession and have had unlimited experience in the treatment of all Chronic Diseases and Deformities. As the latest methods, instruments and appliances of the various schools of both the Old and the New World are familiar to and at the command of this staff of doctors, it is reasonable to believe that in ninety cases out of every hundred a cure can be effected, even when the patients have been given up as incurable by doctors who have had less experience. Do not be discouraged because your doctor can-not give you relief, or even if he tells you that you cannot get well, for it matters not what your disease may be, ye u can consult the doctors free, and, if curable, they will treat you; if incurable, they will give you such

BEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION. The Directivate electors of the state of New York are requested to unite in sending three after its delegates from each Assembly District to a state Convention to be held at suatograsprings, on Tuesday, sept 25th, 1891 at 23 o clock moon, for the outpose of placing in nomination candidates to be voted for at the sustanting general election, and to transact such other business as may properly come before the Convention

Manager St. John, of the Rock Is land system, in his testimony before the Strike Commission, made the astonishing statement that of the 100,. 000 members of the American Railway Union, 120,000 do not work on railroads.

The Vanderbilt interests are reported to be buying heavily of Reading stock, and it is predicted that, when the transfer books are closed in October for the annual election, it will be found that a majority of the stock is in their control. It is also said that the scheme includes the lease or absorption of the Lehigh Valley road. Such a move would give the Vanderbilts virtual control of the anthracite coal production through the Reading, Lehigh and Lackawanna, combined with their influence in Erie affairs through Drexel, Morgan & Co., and their representation in the Ontario and Western directory.

It is well to bear in mind that the strike of the cotton workers at F .11 River and New Bedford is cut off from all possible relation to the tariff bill. The new cotton schedule was drawn by the manufacturers themselves and approved by the New England Senators, Mr. Aldrich, of Rhode Island, going so far as to say that it was the most scientific schedule ever prepared. It leaves American manufacturers the same absolute control of the American market that they have had for years. The strike was forced by the manufacturers because the stock of goods on hand was far greater than the demands of the market. Partial or complete suspension of work until the surplus stock was exhausted was inevitable, but the manufacturers heartlessly ordered a reduction of wages, which they knew the operatives would not accept, in the hope that, all their funds being exhausted, the employes, when work was resumed, might be forced to come in at lower rates of wages than have pre-

Even the New York Tribune has been made sensible of the better bus iness conditions and the brighter business prospects which have come to pass since tariff agreement was had. To-day it says: "There is abundant evidence that in some branches of trade, great preparations are being made for an expansion. Many manufacturing establishments have received orders within the last few days and quite a large number have resumed operations which have long been idle." Having been driven to this admission by the march of events, it tries hard to hedge by talk. ing about low stocks of manufactured products and a declaration that a change for the better is due anyhow-supplementing this by saying that the bill which has passed "is very much less threatening than the measure which was passed by the House." A few days ago the Tribune denounced this same Senate bill, under the influence of which the country's business is every day gaining new impetus, as "ruinous and destructive" to every material interest of the American people. A most remarkable change of base is this of the Tribune, forced though it be.

Henry Clews, a stainch Republican, but a clear headed financier who does not mingle politics with business, takes in his weekly Financial Review a rose colored view of the business situation. He says that the feeling in Wall street over the settlement of the tariff question "is that of Sept Lard 775 772 775 universal relief from a universal obstruction * * * There are no longer any great fears, nor any reasons for timidity, overhanging the markets. * * *. In all interests there is a disposition to resume operations on something approaching a normal scale." Continuing, he says that in every branch of trade stocks of merchandise have been run down to the lowest possible point, prices are unprecedentedly low, credits are in a sound and wholesome condition. In these conditions as the basis for a sound and healthy business revival. and as Mr. Clews says:

There is in the intrinsic state of affairs little to suggest miskivings as to the inture; there is, on the contrary, much calculated to establish confidence in a continuous steady, stable and conser-

OBITUARY.

Mary Catharine Stites

Mrs. Mary Catharine Stites, widow of Somer Stites, who died six years ago, died at 8 o'clock, this morning, at her late residence, No. 50 East avenue. She had been sick about a year. She was in her sixty-fourth

Mrs. Stites was a daughter of Bradner and Harriet Vail Monell, and was born in the town of Hamptonburgh, and was the last of a family of four children. She took up her residence in this city forty years ago and, with the exception of thirteen vears spent in Philadelphia, has made Middletown her home. She was a member of the Second Presbyterian Church.

Samuel W. Staughter.

Mr. Samuel Wickham Slaughter died at Waverly, last evening, after an illness of several years.

He was a son of DeWitt and Carrie Mills Slaughter, the latter a sister of Rov. Dr. S. W. Mills, of Port Jervis. His wife, Charlotte Weils, of Goshen, with one child, survives him. Dr. T. D. Mills, of this city, is a nephew of the deceased.

The body will be brought to this city, on Tuesday, August 28, and the funeral will take place at the Scotchtown Presbyterian Church at 2 p. m. on that day.

The interment will be in the family plot at Scotchtown.

HELD UP ON CANAL STREET.

Highwaymen Try to Rob a Well Known Middletowner.

Last evening at 9:39 o'clock, Mr. D. W. Schoonmaker, foreman of Excelsior Hook and Ladder Co. and assistant manager of the condensery, who had occasion to go to Fulton street, was held up by two men while turning the corner at Canal street.

Mr. Schoonmaker does not claim to be even an amateur pugilist, but he struck out with his right arm in a way that doubtless opened the eyes of the highwaymen.

At any rate both men took leg bail and left Mr. Schoonmaker in posses sion of the field.

The men were doubtless some of the hard characters that were atracted here by the horse races, but if they ever come again they wont tackle Excelsior's forman if they know him.

THE ORCHARD STREET PAVING. The Council Orders the Street Payed to the East Side of F. B. Benton's Lot, A special meeting of the Common Council was held, this morning, present, President Dorrance and Aldermen Reed, Greene, Funnell, Luddington and Mance.

Upon motion of Alderman Mance. seconded by Alderman Funnell, the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That that portion of Orchard street commencing at the place opposite Presbyterian Church already paved, be paved with Mack block to the easterly side of Frank Denton's lot, and that said block be laid on a concrete foundation similar to that portion in said street already laid and grouted with Portland cement, and that the contract for said work be awarded to Orr Brothers for the sum of $2.35 per square yard complete, and also

Resolved, That all previous resolutions in relation to the paving of Orchard street easterly of Denton's land be rescinded.

A Great Crowd Present at Capt. Jackson Post's Opening of That Popular Resort-The Exercises-The Military street Parade-Entertainment of the Visiting Militiamen.

A great crowd is at Midway Park, which is being formally opened by Capt. Jackson Post, G. A. R. Every car that has left the city, this afternoon, has been crowded to its utmost capacity, and the Traction Company has every available car in service.

The programme provided for suitable exercises. Hon. M. D. Stivers, President of the Day, made a brief address and Geo. H. Decker, Orator of the Day, made an eloquent address, which was timely and appropriare and which was well received Brief remarks were also made by visitors from Scranton.

THE MILITARY PARADE.

The Scranton Company arrived by special train on the O. and W., at 11 o'clock. The 21th was on hand to meet the visitors, and escorted them at once to the Armory, where a short rest was had.

The two companies, headed by Bauer's Band, then marched through Wickham avenue to North street, and through North to Franklin Square. At the post office, the members of Capt. Jackson Post, G. A. R., and DaWitt Camp, S. of V., fell in behind the militiamen, and from Franklin Square the line of march was through East Main street to Railroad avenue, where the G. A. R. veterans and the band boarded the trolley cars for the park.

The soldiers returned to the Armory, where arms were stacked, and the Scranton company was invited to the dining room in the pasement, where an excellent dirner was in waiting, prepared by Mrs. DeWitt Torrey.

Capt. Rockwell dismissed his company for the day, and informed them that they were at liberty until the start for home to-morrow morning, at 7:55 o'clock.

The Scranton company will be quartered in the Armory for the night, and breakfast will be served to them in the building at 6 o'clock. THE SCRANTON COMPANY.

The following members of the company are present:

Captain—W. B. Rockwell.
First Lieutenant—E. G. Corwin.

From a special correspondent.

-Miss Florence Thompson celebrated her fourth birthday on Thursday by entartaining a few of her young friends at the house of her parents on Main street.

-Mrs. Richard Sayer, of Englewood, has, with her children, been visiting at the home of Mr. Wm. M. Sayer, in this village.

-Rev. Wm. E. Maison returned on Thursday from Rutherford, N. J. where he had been spending the urday only. previous week.

-It is a singular thing what a fascination monkeys have for people in general. One evidence that this is the case is the crowd that may be seen at any hour of the day, watching the antics of the three specimens in the window of Jonas's clothing store. Nothing has excited so much interest in Goshen in a long time. Perhaps it is because some of their actions are such grotesque caricatures of those of human beings as to rouse a certain sympathy in them. Watch a female monkey with her offspring. Does she not handle it deftly and apparently as lovingly as a mother does her baby? When one sees this and thinks of Darwin's theory, it is enough to make one lose all pride in one's ancestry. --One cannot help but have some sympathy for the sober old Goshen town clock that, to use one of Mark Twain's expressions, "fetched loose" and sowed a few wild oats one night this week. It has stayed up in that church tower and faithfully tolled the passing hours for the waking and sleeping inhabitants of the village day after day, night after night and year after year, until no wonder it went wild with the monotony and struck as though inspired by Debs himself, just to show what it could do if it chose. How much company a clock is, by the way, and how quickly one misses the cessation of its ticking, if for any reason it stops suddenly. There is a good deal of character in these time pieces, too. Contrast the brisk business-like tick of a cheap modern clock with the ponderous swing of the pendulum in one of those tall ones affected by our grandfathers,-a swing that always seemed to the writer to be keeping time with old father Time's scythe. It seems incredible that the former does not really count off the seconds. minutes and hours one whit more rapidly than does its more dignified relative.

"AN ATTRACTION PARTICLE." Interesting Disclosures Made at the Convention of the British Association.

The annual disclosure of the latest discoveries in various branches of science being made at the convention of the British association, Oxford, is an interesting budget. Lord Salisbury's address at the opening of the conference attracts widespread attention. He proclaimed himself a scientific agnostic, but the most remarkable feature of his paper was his outlining of the marvels of unsolved problems to which modern science is now devoting itself. He paid a sympathetic tribute to Darwin's great work, but refused to acknowledge the jellyfish as his ancestor on any evidence yet offered. He attacked Weissmann's theory of natural selection in evolution and affirmed that the present day has brought a return to the belief that creative design was supreme.

It has been in these meetings of the several divisions of the convention that the latest discoveries and theories have been presented. A year ago the biologists, who had believed for years that they were on the point of solving the mystery of life, acknowledged themselves baffled. Now Professor Schaefer, president of the section of physiology, announces the discovery in each tiny animal cell containing life of what he terms "an attraction particle." It should be remembered that when the biologists discovered the cell principle of life they thought it impossible to subdivide these infinitely small atoms, but the microscope has shown the existence of this small particle in each cell, which is itself a structure sui generis, having a definite existence and a definite function of its own. It is almost as minute an object as it is possible to conceive. In a cell which is magnified 1,000 diameters the central particle appears merely of the size of a pin point. Yet this almost infinitely small object exerts an extraordinary influence over the whole cell, which may be many thousand times its size. It initiates and directs those processes which result in the multiplication of cells, and indirectly therefore it is concerned in directing the general growth of the individual and ultimately the propagation of species. It is shown, then, that the principle of life is contained in a particle 1,000 times smaller than the smallest object which the best microscopes of a few years ago were able to perceive, and the latest name for the unsolved mystery of life is "an attraction particle."—New York Sun's London Letter.

WONDERFUL GOLD DISCOVERIES. Western Australia Stories Which Read Like

Fairy Tales. The stories of wonderful gold discoveries in western Australia were confirmed by an official dispatch Thursday The details of the principal find near Coolgardie had already reached London. A party of six were returning from an unsuccessful prospecting tour on May

8. When in camp one night, they separated to test and examine the neighborhood. A man named Mills came to one of the many large "blows" which are characteristic of the country. He was astonished on rubbing his hand across a protruding piece of stone to se gold standing out prominently. He knocked a large piece off a bowlder, and at his feet lay a magnificent specimen literally studded with coarse gold, while before him, dazzling his eyes, was a magnificent reef of almost pure gold, a fortune in itself. Mills, taking several pieces from the reef, placed them in his bosom, and carefully covering the reef with earth found his mates. On the next morning 25 acres were pegged off, and the adjoining blocks at each end were also taken up. One man went to town and bought a delly, the largest he could procure. In one day they dollied 1,000 ounces, and in a short time had nearly $100,060 worth of ore. On June 23 they packed it in a cart and landed the treasure at the Union bank. The manager weighed the gold, and it turned the scales at 4,280 ounces. A few days after the discovery became public. One lump has been taken from the reef containing more gold than ore. It weighed 240 pounds and is worth $20,000. Of course there is immense excitement in the region, and many other discoveries are reported, but there is unlikely to be anything left for late comers.—London Letter. New York Police Methods.

It came out at the police board meeting in New York last month that whenever any big strike or riot has been going on out of town Superintendent Byrnes has obtained permission from the Western Union Telegraph company to tap its underground wire at Broadway and Houston street and receive prompt news direct from distant points. Little of importance during the recent Chicago strike came into the Western Union office that he did not know about almost as soon as it reached the newspaper offices. The superintendent admitted that this arrangement had been of immense service to him, and that had the strike extended to within reasonable limits of New York city his arrangements were all perfected. The Western Union people have consented to make this arrangement permanent.

Huntington's Superstition. It is said that Collis P. Huntington's desire to sell the $2,000,000 palace which he has just completed in New York is his belief in the old supersti tion that old men who grow rich build fine houses for their funerals. He expected to move in three years ago, but it was only last year that the house began to get near completion. In the meantime his health had become less and less vigorous. His age and his years of hard work and worry began to tell upon him. The superstition came back with renewed force, and he began to think a great deal about it. At last be became absolutely convinced that should he move in the first function to which his friend's would come would be his funeral. Then he decided that he would not even keep the house in the family. -Brooklyn Citizen.

'AN "ARGUS" MAN OFF DUTY AIMS AT SEVERAL SUBJECTS.

A Mock Marriage That Was Binding-A Millionaire, Eighty-three Years Old-Indicted for Perjury-All Winners on

Frank Soden, a young dentist from New York city, who was spending the summer at Gilbertsville, Otsego county, made the acquaintance, a month or so ago, of Miss Belle Matterson, of Hamilton, who was visit ing with friends in Gilbertsville. They seemed much interested in each other and Dr. Soden was so very attentive that the village gossips were sure it would be a match. Monday afternoon the couple drove to Morris and spent the evening with friends at Hall's hotel. In the course of the conversation some one lamented the fact that no marriages had occurred to vary the monotony of the summer's existence and it was suggested that even a mock marriage would be better than no marriage at all. After some bantering Mr. Soden and Miss Matterson consented to go through a mock marriage ceremony. George Fults tied the knot in a graceful and solemn manner and the couple, after receiving the congratulations of friends, drove off. Next day, a notice of the marriage was published in the Morris Chronicle and Mr. Soden received a marriage certificate from Mr. Fouts, who it seems is a Justice of the Peace and ties marriage knots for keeps. The couple who found themselves married hard and fast have decided to accept the situation and are apparently as happy and as well satisfied as if a marriage intended as a joke had not turned out to be a reality.

William Miles, eighty-three years old, a millionaire who has for years been prominent in the social and business world of Brooklyn and New York, and who has held and still holds many positions of trust and honor, was indicted, yesterday, by the New York Grand Jury for perjury, based on a charge of forgery. The complaint was made by Mr. Miles's nephew, William S. Hurley, and grows out of the settlement of the estate of his father, who was Mr. Miles's partner. It is possible that the accused may have a good defence, but the evidence against him must have been very strong or the Grand Jury would not have voted to indict. There is something very sad in such a trouble coming in his old and position, and who has so lived of his associates. As Sophocles wrote, in Œ lipus Tyrannas, many centuries ago: "Call no man happy until he has passed life's bounds the sufferer of naught painful,"

It stands to reason that some one lost money in betting on the races, but you can hunt this town through and you cannot find a loser and, strange to say, those from out of town who attended the meeting all went home declaring that they had made a good thing, telling with the greatest circumstantiality of detail how much they had taken out of the pool box on this race and that race and how much they were ahead. It's curious, isn't it, that all should win and no one lose? I would not impute deliberate untruthfulness to any of those who played the pool box. I thirk they are honest in their stories, and I reconcile their stories with what must be the facts of the case by assuming that when they backed the wrong horse they made haste to forget all about it-that's the way some people have a trick of doing with disagreeable subjects, -while when they won they dwelf upon the pleasing fact until it assumes such proportions that it dwarfs everything else within their mental horizon. This charitable theory doesn't account for the fellow who takes only a single fiver in the pools and fails to pick a winner, and if he boasts of his win nings there is no escape from it,-he

THE MIDDLETOWN RACES

End of a Successful Meeting-Yesterday's Events Won by Grace Hastings, Ida B. and Clara C.—Ned Witkes Wins Horse Killed on the Track.

The four days' meeting of the Middietown Fair and Driving Park Association came to a successful end, yesterday afternoon, although the pleasure of the day was marred by an accident, by which Mr. DuBois Brinkerhoff, of Fishkill, lost a valuable five-year-old colt, Garry B. The accident occurred in the third heat of the 2:45 class, just after the horses had passed under the wire. Lizzie H., who finished third, caught her foot in a quarter-boot and stumbled, falling to her knees. She quickly recovered but fell to her knees again and in the second attempt to rise swerved to the right colliding with Garry B., overturning the latter's sulky and throwing the driver, Mr. Brinkerhoff out. Garry B. fell heavily and ruptured a blood vessel. The horse was unable to rise and he was quickly unharnessed. Everything possible was done for him, but after half an hour's work it was evident that the animal was beyond help and a stone boat was procured and the horse was dragged to a box stall in Mr. Campbell's barn, where it died an hour later. Mr. Brinkerhoff escaped without injury and Lizzie H. and her driver, Mr. Carey were also unhurt.

Garry B. was a promising fiveyear-old gelding, sired by Macy, dam by Thorndale. It was the first time the horse had ever started in a race. He was valued at $1,500.

THE 2:45 RACE.

The racing was up to the standard of the previous days, although the favorities in each race won handily. Grace Hastings had an easy time in vigor and good spirits from Paine's the 2:45 class winning in three heats. Fred, driven by Judge Martin, took second money, while third money went to the owner of the unfortunate Garry B. Little Macwas fourth.

The four-year-old race was a walkover for Clara C., who could have easily distanced her field in the first heat. She was almost at a walk under the wire, just moving fast enough to keep Riplet from winning.

Clara C. took the second and third heate, and although she broke badly several times in the third, she had sufficient speed to recover the lost ground and win easily.

AUGUST FOR HEALTH.

the Unfinished Colt Race-A Valuable It Must Be Whether You Take a Vacation or Not.

> Take Time Now to Strengthen Nerves and Body.

> See Thrt Every Part of the Body Becomes Well Fed.

Eleven months for business, for money making, for absorbing work. Take August for becoming strong and Get back to your proper weight; relieve the tired nerves of their irritability; fill the body with ruddy, vig orous, serviceable blood. You will work to twice the purpose with a clear head and a hody undisturbed by aches and pains.

Give Paine's celery compound a fair trial in August.

Weariness and lack of strength is a matter of the nerves and brain. It is the exhaustion of the nerve centers that produces the feeling of lassitude and depression.

Digestion and assimilation are the first to become affected by diminished nerve power, and as those functions are so closely connected with every part of the body the entire system shares in their disorder. Men and women about middle age take little exercise, their blood becomes slow and impure and all their important organs sluggish, while a constantly increasing load of anxiety and care keeps their nerves from being properly nourished. Such persons will find a steady gain in health, in celery compound taken steadily through the month of August.

The reason for the high regard in which Paine's celery compound is held by physicians for building up the weak, the sickly and the nervous is because all its ingredients are known to medical men to feed the nerves and to provide pure and rich blood for all the weak parts of the body. Every trace of nervous exhaustion disappears when the nerves that govern the functions of the body are thus abundantly supplied with their appropriate food.

The disturbances of the pervous system, whether neuralgia, rheumatism, debility, extreme nervousness or heart trouble, are due to derangements in nutrition. Headache, a sence of weight on top of the head, a feeling of constriction about the forehead; these are very significant symptoms and should be headed. Better and more complete nutrition is demanded for the nerves and brain. Thin, pale faces, wasted frames, unhealthy skin and low spirits tell un-increased, natural appetite, assists the assimilation of the food and quiets and restores a healthy nervous action.

EXTRA FINE MUSIC. One of the Treats for Those Who Attend the Forepauah Show.

One of the most striking features of the Adam Forepaugh Shows that is attracting the attention of the press of this section of the country, is the extra fine kind of music which is given in connection with the circus. These shows always have had fine music, but never before anything like as good as it is this year. The music part of the programme is well worth the price of admission many of the criticism of the shows say, and to those who are fond of good music a fine treat is promised when the shows appear here on Tuesday, Sept.

Pimples, boils and other humors of the blood are liable to break out in the warm weather. Prevent it by taking Heod'sSarsaparilla.

INSTRUCTION IN MUSIC

Commencing first week in Sept. The study of voice development involves a far more important fact than concert singing, requiring a correct use of the lungs and throat, on which, in very many cases, one's health depends. The practice of singing correctly is calculated to bring about the healthy action and development of muscles which other is would have lain dormant, and the breathing exercises are of incalculable value to those inclined to pulmonary weakness.
